Embracing IT Agility in order to adapt or integrate current technologies with newer, more disruptive technologies, and thus move at the pace of the market is fundamental to the success of any Tech organisations today. Research shows that amongst Senior Management in Tech, around 75% of employees believe in agile practices as the way forward however only 39% of them are confident in their ability to execute. With so many different software tools available, knowing where to start can become a real challenge for teams.

In this panel discussion, we speak to female leaders from several different companies to gain insight around how Senior Management can take their first steps towards adopting IT Agility, measure their progress, and navigate their way around some of the pitfalls that might show up along the way.

Featuring:

- Emmeline Smart, Head of Continuous Improvement and Agile Practice @SSE
- Mariya Hauffe, Global IT Enterprise Monitoring & Recovery Manager @QVC
- Elle Anderson, Group Head of Digital Centres of Enablement @Bupa
